Beacon Registration

Cheryl Bertoia

Cospas-Sarsat Secretariat

Montreal

Why Register?

Beacon registration is essential for efficient SAR operations:

- Faster rescue:
 - Non-location protocol beacon detected by a Cospas-Sarsat Geostationary satellite
 - LEOSAR Satellites produce two Doppler positions
- Provides essential information on the vessel and its operator
- Mitigating impact of false alerts

Proper registration of a beacon can make the difference between success and failure of a search and rescue mission

Why Register?

- 406 MHz 15 character hexadecimal identification (“Hex ID”) = UNIQUE IDENTIFIER
- Hex ID is the key to the registration database:
 - specific aircraft or vessel identification information
 - make/model/colour of the aircraft or vessel in distress
 - communications equipment available
 - the maximum number of persons onboard
 - planned route information
 - special requirements, e.g. medications

Why Register?

- ICAO and IMO require all 406 MHz ELTs and EPIRBs to be registered:
 - Annex 10 to ICAO Convention
 - IMO Assembly Resolution A.887(21)
- Beacon registration is the responsibility of States

ICAO/IMO Requirements for 406 MHz Beacon Registers

- ICAO/IMO specify the minimum information that should be immediately available to search and rescue authorities
- Registry should be accessible 24-hours per day / 7 days per week
- States shall ensure that the register is updated whenever necessary
- Each State should provide Cospas-Sarsat with the details of their 406 MHz beacon register (address, telephone, facsimile or telex number, etc.)

INTERNATIONAL 406 MHz BEACON REGISTRATION DATABASE

- Beacon registration essential to SAR operation efficiency
- Beacon registration is the responsibility of States
- Too many unregistered 406 MHz beacons
- Cospas-Sarsat implemented an international registration database to assist States in January 2006
- International database is Internet based and allows:
 - States to use database and control entries if they wish
 - Users to register directly if no other option
 - SAR services to access registration data through Internet
